

Security is an afterthought. 15 years. Nothing's changed. We're still patching vulnerabilities. Like the new Linux 'Copy Fail' flaw. Enables root access. Shift-left. Integrate security into development. Not a last-minute band-aid.

CVE-2026-31431. CVSS score: 7.8. Unprivileged local user gets root. Patching today? Or waiting? Prove me wrong.

Source:

<https://thehackernews.com/2026/04/new-linux-copy-fail-vulneral>