

Breaches are rising. Bitwarden CLI is compromised. Malicious code in `@bitwarden/cli@2026.4.0`. Novel obfuscation techniques used. No perimeter-based security can stop this. Zero-Trust architecture is a must. MITRE ATT&CK or NIST Cybersecurity Framework: which one catches backdoors first? Check the details.  Source: <https://thehackernews.com/2026/04/bitwarden-cli-compromised->
#ZeroTrust #SupplyChainSecurity #IdentityCentricSecurity